

Te Puia

Rotorua, Central Plateau

Maori Arts & Thermal Valley

Te Puia in Rotorua's Whakarewarea Valley, is home to the New Zealand Maori Arts and Crafts Institute, kiwi enclosure and 60ha of geothermal wonders.

Wander at your leisure or take a guided tour through the beautifully preserved native bushland of this geothermal valley, past over 500 bubbling mud pools and boiling springs amidst a steaming landscape. The spectacular Pohutu geyser, the largest natural geyser in the southern hemisphere, erupts up to heights of 30metres on a roughly hourly cycle. The nocturnal kiwi enclosure is a chance to see native kiwi birds and participate in the breeding program which Te Puia supports.

Near the entrance to Te Puia are two Maori arts and crafts schools for wood carving and flax weaving. Talk to the artists working in our national school of wood carving, Pounamu (greenstone) carving and and weaving to gain an understanding of the importance of these crafts in Maori culture and society.
